Inspecting and Expecting

Through my many years in education I have had some great mentors tell me "you get what you inspect and not necessarily what you expect." I too have shared this advice with many that I have had the privilege of serving with. This advice is important to follow in so many areas of life including the education of our students.

We know from scripture in 2nd Timothy 2:15 that it is important to study. We also know that 1st Corinthians 10:31 tells us to do that we do unto God's glory. Finally, we know that the Lord after sending out the 72 followers in Luke 10:1 If I had a time of review with them to see both what they had done and how they had done. This pattern is one that we as well seek to carry out with our students here at Christian Academy.

This coming week of April 26-30 all of our students in grades K-11 will be working through a series of standardized tests (Terra Nova) to help us review how our students have done in studying and doing various subjects and concepts. This review of information is both individual and collective for the classes. The information gained from this evaluation helps us better determine how to connect with each student for their improvement and ours.

Thanks for your prayers for the students and staff this upcoming week during this time of student assessment. Thanks also for you part in helping to make sure your children are getting a good night's rest, having a good breakfast before arriving at school and to also ensure they are indeed at school daily unless they are sick or have pressing appointments. All of this helps in the process to study, do and review. 😊

Verse of the Week

“He was fully convinced that God is able to do whatever He promises.” Romans 4:21

We are often limited. There are things we can’t do. There are things we’re bad at. However, that’s not how God is. God is able to do whatever He promises. When we’re limited by time, ability and other constraints, God isn’t. When God promises something, He’s able to do it. So, we’ve just got to determine to take God at His Word. We’ve got to trust His word more than we trust what we see around us. We might see all the reasons why we can’t, but if God has called you to do something, then you can. You might see limitation, but God sees possibility. So, trust God, let His promises be real to you, and see God do something amazing in your life! Copied from: studentdevos.com

Congratulations to senior Cassidy Rhoades for being awarded third place and a $100 prize for a speech she wrote and virtually presented in March for the Shelby County Rotary Right to Life Speech Contest. Cassidy worked hard to research, write, and effectively deliver her speech to persuade others to consider an issue she feels passionately about: the rights of unborn children.
